GL19 Keynote Address

Imma Subirats, Senior Information Management Officer Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, FAO-UN

Ms. Imma Subirats has worked as senior information management officer at the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) since 2006. She is the team leader of the Information and Data Access Services at the Partnerships, Advocacy and Capacity Development Division (OPC). With more than 20 years of experience in this sector, she is currently managing a large number of projects and services to enhance the accessibility, visibility and usability of scientific research in agricultural sciences. In this context, she is responsible of AGRIS, a free service with more than 8,500,000 records (1,500,000 to full text) to publications related to agricultural science and technology. She is also the AGORA Program Manager, program that delivers the most recent, high quality and relevant scientific literature to reduce the scientific knowledge gap and develop capacities to access and use the scientific literature in low-income countries. For the last 10 years, Ms Subirats has supported capacity development activities to enhance the creation, management, preservation and dissemination of information and data in agriculture. This includes to develop capacities to enable information and data managers to manage and exchange data efficiently, through online and face-2-face training programmes - in particular in Africa, Asia and Latin America. She is the co-chair of the Agricultural Data Interest Group (IDAG) of Research Data alliance (RDA), manager of the e-Agriculture community of practice and coordinator of the Agricultural Information Management Standards (AIMS) website.
