11:30  13:00 – SPECIAL PANEL SESSION

The Open Science Publishing Flood and Collaborative Authoring
Chair  Simon Worthington, German National Library of Science and Technology, TIB Hannover

Currently there is a deluge of ‘off-piste’ collaborative authoring going on in Open Science, the adoption of: software versioning systems like GitHub for writing; simulations and code in platforms like Jupyter; or in ‘real time’ web authoring ‘operational transformation algorithm’ based software like Etherpad. Yes the ‘digital plumbing’ of this publishing flood is just not in place. How do we ID these documents, reuse them for example. These questions have been asked and answered before, but are outside the fast moving, forward looking tech world. As an example, Ted Nelson coined the term ‘transclusion’ (Nelson 1987) back in the ‘80s. Transclusion is a step on from the ‘hyperlink’, another Nelson term, where not just the link of a target is included in a document but instead the whole content (AKA live linked embedding). Currently if you want to link and include another document fragment in your document, with persistence, it’s unlikely to work. The panel will bring together platform makers and user to look at questions of what is needed to turn this exciting field into something that can better support research.

Guidelines

Persons who seek to present a poster during GL21 are invited to submit an English abstract between 250-300 words. The abstract should describe the project, activity, information product or service. The abstract should likewise include a title, name(s) of the author(s) and their full address information. Abstracts are an important source of information available prior to the conference, which is accessible to both conference delegates and participants.

Due Date, Format, and Poster Prize 2019

Timely registration is a guarantee for your placement on the conference program. The conference venue is able to accommodate a limited number of physical posters (maximum size A0 (841 x 1189 mm / 33.1 x 46.8 in)). Posters will be mounted on display panels allowing for optimal viewing. Abstracts in MSWord should be emailed to conference@textrelease.com on or before September 20th 2019. Those submitting poster abstracts will receive verification upon receipt accompanied by further guidelines for posters, submission of PowerPoint slides, Conference Registration, etc.

Those presenting conference posters are eligible for the Poster Prize 2019 that will be awarded during the GL21 Closing Session. Posters will be judged on their innovative content, relevance to the conference, graphic design, and presentation.
Persistent identifiers such as a DOI for a publication and an ORCID for an author/researcher can be approached from both the demand-side as well as supply-side of information. It appears however that the former attracts more attention. Here emphasis lies in the access to and preservation of research output. Yet, it is on the supply-side regarding the acquisition of research output that persistent identifiers may by the same token have influence in identifying and populating prospective data archives and repositories. This study will look at the influence persistent identifiers have in securing the acquisition of grey literature for public access.

The goal of this project is twofold. First, to carry out a survey within the grey literature community as to the opinions, uses, and applications of persistent identifiers. And second, to initiate a project geared to populate a new collection housed in the GreyGuide Repository by using the DOI as an incentive. Resources in Grey Literature (RGL) is as a generic, multidisciplinary collection that will serve for this purpose.

Using GreyNet’s distribution channels and social media, stakeholders in the field of grey literature are invited to enter one or more of their publications in the RGL collection. Each new entry will receive a DOI minted by GreyNet International and further stored and preserved in the DataCite registry. Also, a system generated citation will be added to each new entry in order to facilitate record use. The types of grey literature documents eligible for entry in the RGL collection are numerous and can be found at www.greynet.org/greysourceindex/documenttypes.html.

Brief guidelines for record entry require that it be self-archived using the existing online-template and that both the metadata record and accompanying full-text document(s) are in English. An additional descriptive field does allow for entry in another language. And, a translation of the document can also be uploaded in the repository. Finally, it is understood that by submitting the metadata record and file(s), they become open access compliant under Creative Commons license CC-BY-SA.

The initial phase of the project commences in April 2019 and closes in September 2019. Records harvested during this period along with the results of the survey will be analyzed in its second phase. In the final phase, the project’s outcome will be published. Results should indicate whether the AccessGrey Project be extended to other collections in the GreyGuide, and if this project would be of value to other communities of practice in the field of grey literature.
